FAQ

What is the best time to learn how to surf?

In Ericeira the best time to learn how to surf is from April, until the end of October. However, you can still learn how to surf throughout the other months of the year.

Should we have classes every day?

That will depend on the student's physical condition and whether he has any experience surfing. Only then can it be determined if there are the necessary conditions for the student to have classes every day.

What to take to the surf class?

We recommend always to take a beach towel, sun cream, water, something to eat and willingness to learn.

Do I need to know how to swim?

It is not required to know how to swim to have a class at 3SURFER'S Surf School. We always work in controlled environments to provide students with maximum security, in addition, teachers will give basic swimming and safety instructions so that nothing unusual happens.

10. How much will I progress in a week of surf?

A week of surfing with daily classes will provide the surfer with a big progress (especially for beginners). Nevertheless, external factors such as, weather conditions can affect the rate at which a surfer is able to develop. In contrast to soccer or basketball where the field is barely changed or effected, in surf there are no similar days and our field is always changing. This can sometimes cause the evolution of the surfer to be slower than usual.

In a week with reasonable wave conditions, a beginner with some sports habit, will be able to stand up in the surf board, catch breaking waves (with the help of the instructor or alone), cut the wave "on the green" and ride the walls of the waves with speed.
